Synopsis

Vampire Novel Human women required. Must be enthusiastic about interactions with vampires. Must be willing to undergo a stringent medical exam. Must be prepared to sign a contractual agreement which would include a nondisclosure clause. Limited positions available

Lance has been to hell and back. Literally. Dying hurts. It hurts like a bitch on steroids. It's the coming back though that's the biggest struggle. Days of sheer torture untold agony. He may have survived, but it's not without scars. Lance wears them like a mask. Surrounds himself in them like an impenetrable wall. He may be a part of The Program, but he isn't looking for a mate. No way in hell. Toying with the human females may have started out as fun, but it's become more trouble than it's worth. He'll get through the last heat and be on his way. It's a huge irritation that he's been named as the most eligible bachelor. Every human female is gunning for him. Don't they know that they are playing with fire? Don't they realize that playing with fire is liable to get you burned? Amber can't believe it when she makes it into The Program. It's her chance to live a little. Maybe she'll find her soul mate. The one. Maybe, just maybe, her perfect match is one of the elite ten. It's a pity that the one guy who draws her attention is such a colossal asshole. Not only that, he's the most arrogant person she has ever met. No thank you very much. She'll pass. Her attraction for the big, brooding vampire is a major irritation, especially when there are so many other potential candidates. She just needs to try harder to avoid him

try harder to like one of the others

This book can be read as a standalone but would be best enjoyed as a part of the series. No cliffhanger! The story contains strong sexual themes/language and is not intended for readers under the age of 18.

Customer Reviews

I've read all five of the books in the Program series. (More to come.) I was looking forward to Lance's book since he has the most complicated backstory of all the vampires. Charlene Hartnady told that story in the Chosen series. Lance was his typical bad boy self in the "first heat" of the Program. In the second heat, he ignored the females. So I was a little disappointed that this book was pretty fluffy. I was hoping that Lance would go down harder. I wanted to see him grovel a bit. And I was hoping for a tougher woman than Amber. Don't get me wrong. These books are a fun read and the characters are charming. There's some good hot sex and along with the romance. Ultimately, the vampires are sweet alphas who fall hard for human females. But, one thing that is starting to grate on me is the portrayal of human females acting all flustered about sex. Moreover, it's only the good girls who act this way and of course they end up with mates. They are contrasted with the slutty women who lust after vampires like Lance. Vampires are supposed to be highly sexual beings who don't understand why human females don't want to "rut" immediately to test "compatibility." That conflict can lead to some interesting plots. However, I've gotten a fed up with the "prim and proper" women who seem to be protecting their virtue even though they know this is a "breeding" program. There's a lot of no not meaning no and that gets tiresome. Moreover, why is there this double standard when the vampire males can be man whores, but when the women act that way, they are dismissed? In this book, Amber tries to protect her heart and claims that it's "just sex" with Lance. She says, "no" most of the time when she really wants to be with Lance.
